Written by Alexa Moses and illustrated by Anil Tortop

Bat vs Poss is a fun rhyming tale of the trouble that brews when a cantankerous fruit bat moves in and disturbs a peaceful neighbourhood of Australian animals. Big sister Poss unexpectedly finds herself nominated to deal with the aggravating intruder, and finally comes up with a plan to send the noisy neighbour on his way and restore the peace.

It is only when Poss' tiniest sister intervenes with a compassionate thought that the neighbourhood realises that perhaps there is a way that everyone can live together, without too many conflicts. Children will love the beautifully expressive faces of Anil Tortop's animals as they giggle at this relatable tale of learning to get along and accept differences.
