

Magnetic Personality

You clasp a magic wand in your hand. When you open your hand, the magic wand somehow remains floating against your palm!

Number One Way

Number Two Way

For this way you'll need a ruler and you'll have to wear a watch. Before your performance, slide the ruler under the watch band until its end comes to the palm of your hand. If you slip the wand between your left palm and the ruler, it will not drop. You might need to wear long sleeves so that nobody catches a glimpse of the ruler.
